

BOER HAS 20,000 MEN NEAR PRETORIA

Ten Thousand Hold Forts of Capital—Last Stand to Be Made There.

LORENZO MARQUES, Delagoa, June 2.—President Kruger yesterday was at Mafikadung, about half way between Pretoria and the Portuguese frontier, on the railroad between the Transvaal capital and Delagoa Bay.

Boer commands, totalling about 20,000 men, held Thursday all the positions and hills around Pretoria. Another large command was at Bronkhorstgruut, about forty miles from Pretoria, on the railroad leading to Delagoa Bay.

LORD ROBERTS'S ARMY IS NEAR PRETORIA.

LONDON, June 2.—Lord Roberts's last report of the movements of the British troops in the Transvaal is somewhat mysterious. From the fact that Gen. French's report took two days to reach the Commander-in-Chief at Johannesburg it is believed that either French must be many miles north of that city or that he is having trouble with his communications.

The former is generally accepted as the most probable, and it is surmised that Lord Roberts's vague phrase setting forth that French "is now holding the place which I directed him to do, north of Johannesburg," means that his position is quite close to Pretoria.

HEAVY BRITISH LOSSES IN THE ORANGE STATE.

LONDON, June 2.—Fighting is still going on at a lively rate in the Orange Free State. The combined forces of Gen. Buller and Gen. Colville, according to Lord Roberts, are 40 killed and 100 wounded.

The War Office gave out the following despatch from Lord Roberts regarding the Orange State operations:

"JOHANNESBURG, June 1, 9:35 P. M.—Sir Henry Colville in reporting the arrival of the Highland Brigade at Heilbrunn May 29 states that he was opposed

ROBERTS TO BE A DUKE.

Order of the Garter Is Also Ready for the Warrior.

(Copyright, 1900, by the Associated Press.) LONDON, June 2.—One of the most curious features of the closing chapters of the great war is the oblivion into which Gen. Buller has fallen. A few months ago it was Buller who would stem the tide of Boer invasion, it was Buller who would enter Pretoria on Christmas Day. Yet now Gen. Buller is scarcely mentioned.

Gen. French, Hamilton and others are all more frequently talked of and cheered than the former Commander-in-Chief, who seems to have become a negligible quantity in the shadow of the Big Game.

Words fail to describe the national gratitude to Lord Roberts. Wellington never was to England what Roberts is to-day in the eyes of the general public.

A Duke and the Order of the Garter, at the Queen's disposal through the death of the Duke of Argyll, are the least rewards that could be bestowed on him. Already people are talking of the scenes which will mark his homecoming.

One thing the British Government is determined—i. e., President Kruger cannot stay in the Transvaal. In the event of his capture he must be transported, not necessarily in duress, but he must be got out of the territory which Lord Salisbury expects will shortly be part of the British Empire.

Every effort will be made to capture President Kruger, but the Government officials are inclined to believe he will manage to get into Portuguese territory, where the British will be unable to touch him.

BRABANT TRAPS BOERS. Big Force Surrounded by the British Outside of Ficksburg on Beuto Line.

MABERU, Basutoland, May 11.—Gen. Buller has practically surrounded the Boers five miles outside of Ficksburg. The only line open for the Boers to retreat to the Basutoland border, where thousands of Basutos, under Chief Maseru, are waiting en masse.

MEYERS AN EX-CONVICT.

Eva Benn and Harry Brooks Held in $1,000 Bail for Assault.

Augustus Meyers, the insurance broker who claimed that Edna Benn, Harry Brooks and his wife, Maud, had been assaulted in his apartment at 425 Fifth avenue after failing to blackmail him out of $10,000, emerged from the ordeal of prosecuting them in Jefferson Market Court this morning.

On Meyers's admission that he had served time on Blackwell's Island for jumping a board bill and Detective Barry's accusation that he had represented himself in a police court as a son of ex-Comptroller Theodore F. Myers to escape prosecution for disorderly conduct, Magistrate Plummer refused to entertain his charge of blackmail.

He held Edna Benn and Harry Brooks in $1,000 for assault because he said they admitted it, and discharged Mrs. Brooks. When Detective Barry accused Meyers of impersonating the ex-Comptroller's son he was in an awkward position. "Now, why should I do that when Ed Meyers and I are good friends? He was one of the dinner party I had arranged in Miss Benn's honor last Saturday."

This coincidence of the two Meyers is matched by another quite as singular. Henry G. Well, the wealthy stock broker, whose wife, a former actress, May Wood, is suing him for divorce, naming Edna Benn as one of seven correspondents, lives in the apartment adjoining Meyers with his friend and counsel, Warley Plitzke. It was Mr. Plitzke who called the police to Meyers's apartments to stop the assault.

And further tangling these coincidences is the fact that young Ed Meyers is Henry Well's intimate friend. Meyers appeared in court with a swollen under lip, one front tooth missing and another broken. His face was speckled with abrasions and black and blue spots. He said that Edna Benn was a street acquaintance.

He told the old story of the assault, embellishing it with the statement that Miss Benn had a revolver in one hand and a horsewhip in the other when she demanded money for her alleged slanders. He said Brooks shoved a checkbook at him when he declared he had no money, and that Mrs. Brooks handed her husband a knife.

Mrs. Brooks swore she left the room when the fight began, and was backed up by the janitor, who testified to seeing only a woman and a man leave the room.

Miss Benn said she had met Meyers at a luncheon at the Hoffman House. He called on her the next day, but she didn't like him and showed it. The next day he walked up and down in the rain in front of his house looking up at her window.

He told her story of the assault, but gave Brooks all the credit for threatening Meyers. Magistrate Plummer said pointedly that Meyers had proved himself unworthy of credence, but held the defendants for assault on their own admissions.

Mr. Meyers made the following statement this afternoon: "The attempt to blackmail my character in the Jefferson Market Police Court this morning was without warrant. It is true that six or seven years ago, when I was a poor, struggling young man, I was unable to pay a small hotel bill. I had to go away, and for this they sent me to prison."

He had the courage to go forward to prosecute these blackmailers, and there is no reason why I should be placed on trial in place of the criminals."

Edna Benn gave bonds at noon today and was released.

Brooks is still locked up.

HEARING ON J. R. HAZEL. New York Bar Association Protest Heard by Senate Sub-Committee at Washington.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—A sub-committee of the Senate Committee on Judiciary, consisting of Senators Davis, Thurston and Pettus, today gave a hearing upon the nomination of John R. Hazel to be Judge of the new Western District of New York.

A committee representing the New York Bar Association, consisting of Robert W. DeForest, William G. Choate, William E. Curtis and H. W. Taft, presented a report of the Committee of Judicial nominations of the Association against Mr. Hazel.

This report was to the effect that the appointee had not the proper standard of legal experience and ability for high judicial office and that he had not been in active practice of the law for many years.

The committee asserted that Mr. Hazel's record in his political position and personal considerations.

Reference also was made in the report to the fact that Mr. Hazel had received in connection with the sale of the yacht "Enquirer" to the government.

A BLOW AT BRITAIN. Chinese Empress Dowager Orders Arrest of Friends of English Enterprises.

SHANGHAI, June 2.—The Empress Dowager has ordered the Governor of Shan-Si to arrest Lin, the Chinese manager of the Pekin Syndicate; Kai, Chief of the Shan-Si Commercial Bureau, and Fan, a leading banker, on the ground that they are dangerous characters, but in reality because they are connected with British enterprises.

PRINCESS ARIBERT IN WASHINGTON.

Granddaughter of Queen Victoria Pays Her First Visit to America, Traveling Incog.

PRINCESS ARIBERT. Sketched at the Waldorf-Astoria.

A Princess of the blood—no less a personage than a granddaughter of Victoria Regina, Queen of Great Britain and Ireland and Empress of India—has come and gone, and New York society is disappointed because it knew not until yesterday that the Countess of Munsterberg was in reality the Princess Aribert, second daughter of Her Royal Highness the Princess Christian, who is the second daughter of the Queen, and was known, before her marriage to Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, as Princess Helena Augusta.

Not since the visit of the Queen's daughter, the Marchioness of Lorne, several years ago, has a member of the royal family of Great Britain been in this city, and when the identity of the Countess was learned by the guests at the Waldorf-Astoria there was much interest displayed.

OFF FOR WASHINGTON. The Princess left the hotel at 11:20 o'clock for Washington, where she will be the guest of Lord Pauncefoot and the British Embassy, and her brief appearance in the lobby of the hotel was the signal for the gathering of a great crowd of curious persons, who took in her attire and otherwise displayed an interest, which did not seem in any way to annoy the granddaughter of the Queen. In fact, she paid no attention to them.

HER ROYAL BEARING. There is something decidedly distinguished in her bearing, and few who saw her this morning had little difficulty in deciding on the instant that she was the Princess.

As the Princess swept along the corridor of the hotel she really sweeps, walking with a long, firm stride—she was accompanied by her lady-in-waiting, a pleasant-faced little German woman, the Fraulein von Chippen, and a representative of the British Embassy who had journeyed from Washington to escort her to that city. This representative never once addressed the Princess, but communicated always with the fraulein. The Queen's granddaughter seemed to regard everything with a cold indifference.

After sitting in the densely crowded corridor for nearly five minutes the gentlemen remained at the average, 52. The week's spell of oppressive weather has been caused by hot winds from the Southwest combined with rain, which has been prevalent over the entire country east of the Mississippi River.

WEATHER FORECAST. Forecast for the thirty-six hours ending 8 P. M. Sunday, for New York City and vicinity: Thunderstorms with cooler weather this evening and to-night. Sunday fair and cooler. Brisk southwest shifting to northwest winds.

GEN. WOODFORD RETURNS. Ex-Minister to Spain Refused to Talk on the Philippine or the South African Situation.

Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, who was Minister to Spain prior to the war, returned from London and Paris this forenoon on the steamship St. Paul.

"I left New York on May 9 and paid a flying visit to London and Paris, going more for the voyage and rest than anything else."

Being asked for an expression of opinion with regard to matters in South Africa and the Philippines, Gen. Woodford shook his head and smilingly remarked: "I'm a lawyer—not a politician."

A POWERFUL VOICE. The man from Washington leading the way, the party walked to the Thirty-fourth street entrance of the hotel and entered the open barouche, which was there to receive them. The Princess lifted the skirts of her gown as she walked, but when she had been seated she raised a paragon of pale green silk, thus adding to the galaxy of color which adorned her person.

The fraulein von Chippen sat beside her, and the Princess's attendant, who rode two miles in a closed carriage, while an express wagon followed with half a dozen trunks.

This little cortege went down Fifth avenue under the Naval Arch, and then crossed the street to the Twenty-third street ferry.

JAGUAR ALMOST KILLED A WOMAN.

Savage Animal Sprang on Mme. Maurelle and Injured Her Terribly.

Mme. Louise Maurelle was horribly bitten this morning by a ferocious jaguar belonging to the Bostock Animal Show, now exhibiting in Newark.

The jaguar has been in captivity only seven weeks. It was always been surly.

Mme. Maurelle went into the cage this morning to give an exhibition of animal training. She had barely closed the door behind her when the jaguar sprang upon her, burying its teeth in her arm. She fell to the floor of the cage screaming with fear and pain. Several keepers ran to her assistance, but before they succeeded in beating the infuriated beast into submission it had terribly lacerated the woman's arm, face and upper body.

Mme. Maurelle was removed to the City Hospital where grave fears are entertained for her life. Great excitement prevailed in the show grounds at the time the incident occurred. The managers have decided to kill the jaguar.

COOL WAVE, CLEAR SKIES. OPENING OF WAR COLLEGE.

Weather Man Predicts Thunderstorms and a Pleasant Aftermath.

PROSTRATIONS. Anthony Agrera, 128 Schermerhorn street, Brooklyn.

Thunderstorms to-night and a change of wind will bring clear skies and cooler weather to-morrow.

Relief is on the way from the Northwest, whence a cool wave is advancing. It is scheduled to arrive in the early hours of the Sabbath, and in preparation for its coming the soggy clouds which have hung over the town for three days will be bombarded off before midnight.

Old Sol got in his most effective work between 2 and 3 P. M., when the thermometer registered 81 degrees, showing a jump of eleven points since 8 A. M.

The breeze had almost died away, too, which made the atmosphere muggy, and humidity sweltered in consequence. The week's spell of oppressive weather has been caused by hot winds from the Southwest combined with rain, which has been prevalent over the entire country east of the Mississippi River.

WHAT CAUSES APPENDICITIS?

Why was it never heard of up to a few years ago? What has caused the appalling increase in this dread disease?

These are questions that are to-day puzzling thousands, and up to this time a satisfactory explanation has never been given. It is believed, however, that the cause has been found. If you will look back a few years you can remember when cereal breakfast foods first came into existence, and right here the trouble began. Cereal foods are made up largely of starch, which, if properly cooked, is converted into dextrine or grape sugar, the most nutritious element that enters into the building up of nerve and brain tissue. If not properly cooked these starch grains are taken into the stomach in their natural state, and it falls upon this organ to do what the heat of cooking should have done. In most instances the stomach refuses to do this work, when the starch passes into the intestines and there ferments and remains until removed by the use of laxatives or purgatives. As a result inflammation sets in, and appendicitis, catarrh, constipation and a long train of intestinal troubles follow.

The introduction of ready cooked breakfast foods is doing away with these troubles as surely as the half-cooked foods brought them on.

In this connection it is proper to state that Grain-Hearts, that delightful health, breakfast and lunch food, is perhaps the best in this class as the cooking process to which it is subjected extends over a period of eleven hours with varying changes of heat, ranging from 200 to 600 degrees Fahrenheit. By this process a complete digestion of the starch takes place, and hence the stomach has nothing to do but to receive the grape sugar which at once assimilates with the secretions of the body.
